ICE DAM PREVENTION with Mark Garvey, owner AirSealing America

The winter of 2015 was a bad one for ice dams and the problems associated with them. Ice dams and icicles are usually a symptom of air leaks through the home's thermal envelope in the attic. In this seminar, we will discuss air sealing and insulation and how to safely reduce your home's energy use and lower your energy costs, reduce your carbon footprint and increase comfort. Methods and materials for reducing heat loss through floors, walls and ceilings will be discussed, as well as strategies for determining air infiltration through the home's thermal envelope (What's that? We'll define that too!) Class held at 12 Mudge Way, Room 152.
